NAME WRONG IN LICENSE,

SO WIFE ASKS ANNULMENT

DENVER, Colo.—Misspelling a name in obtaining a marriage license, charges was done deliberately by her husband, George Main, and which she contends might jeopardize her rights should she become an heiress, furnished unusual grounds for an annulment action before Judge John A. Perry recently.

Mrs. Main in her complaint, filed September 8 and suppressed, pointed out that she refused to live with her husband when she learned that he had misspelled her name in obtaining the license at Colorado Springs some time prior to June 11, the day on which the marriage ceremony was performed in Denver.

She complains to the court that her maiden name was Schober, and recites that her husband when he obtained the license gave it as "Schober." Judge Perry took the case under advisement.
